North Presbyterian Church Starts a Campaign to Boost Attendance at Its Bible Class.

MANY WORKERS ARE ENLISTED

The North Presbyterian church has one of the largest adult Bible classes of any of the churches of the city, but it is not willing to stop with the present attendance, but instead intends to push the membership to 100 before May 1. At the present time the Sunday attendance is around fifty and a plan has been adepted by which it is hoped to double

At the annual dinner of the class, given in the church dining room Thursday evening the movement to increase the attendance was innugurated and results are expected to follow with great rapidity. Cards for the use of the fifty members are to be printed. Each card is to carry ten names of adults who are not members of the class. These cards will be distributed among the members, who sometime during the week will call up over the telephone and invite the parties to attend the Bible class the following Sunday. Then the cards will be changed and the next week the parties will again. Cards for the use of the fifty members telephone calls personal work will be done by members of a committee appointed for this purpose.

There is no intention of forcing residents of the north-central portion of the city into the adult Bible class of the North Presbyterian church, but an effort is to be made to make them feel that they will be welcome and made to feel at

She Is Using Indirect Influence For the Candidacy of Her "Dad" New Furniture House Has as Its

Since Minerva Rae Quinby was 10 years old, she has been actively interested in woman suffrage.

Every since that time also she has been told that woman should use her indirect influence in politics instead of being granted a ballot. Minerva Rae has taken them at their word at last.

She is now using that indirect influence on all the men and women she meets in Greater Omaha in the interest of the candidacy of her father, Laurie J. Quinby, who is a candidate for Charles Otto Lobeck's place as congressman from the Second district.

So Miss Quinby is constantly bustling

Fifty Thousand Carloads of Cereals Go to Central Powers by Deal Just Made.

FRIENDS OF ENTENTE OBJECT

Correspondence of the Associated Press) BUCHAREST, Roumania, Feb. 8,-Fifty thousand carloads of cereals, or about 10,000,000 hundredweight, go to Germany and Austria-Hungary from Roumania as the result of negotiations which have just been terminated. An option for another 50,000 carloads has also been secured by the agents of the central powers. The Roumanian government has sanctioned the transaction, and export begins immediately. A great deal of grain bought by the central powers months ago, but so far unexported for various reasons, will also be moved now Shipments will be made over every available railroad and on the Danube.

Negotiations were conducted by the the Cereal Central of the German, Aus- cation, does not have to buy grain in for-First, At Young Men's Christian Association, Edwin Hart Jenks. The foodstuffs so procured will be divided among Germany and Austria-Hungary as follows: Six cars of each shipment to Germany and five to Austria and Hungary. Cars and means of river transportation will be provided by the central powers.

Roumania Sells All of Crop. With another 50,000 cars held on option by the central powers, and with Turkey and Bulgaria also in the market, Roumania disposes of her entire 1915 crop. of which but little had been moved Available also is still a good share of the 1914 crop, which Roumania was not disposed to sell to the central powers last spring and summer, owing to the belief that the Dardanelles would be forced by the allies. Some of the cereals sold to the allies were moved via Turn-Severin and Kladowa, whence they were taken over the Serbian railroads to Saloniki. The conquest of Serbia closed this route.

With no prospect that the 1915 crop could be sold to neutrals or the entente group. Roumania was obliged to sell to the central powers group, at a price which is said to be very advantageous to the latter. Figures are not available, however. But that the central powers drove a hard bargain is said here to be indicated by the fact that very little gold changes hands, whereas all previous purchases in Roumania by the central powers were made with gold as the only acceptable equivalent.

The transaction was discussed in the Roumanian parliament and was stoutly

Roumania's position is due to its com plete isolation from the world's grain consumers. The closing of the Dardanelles left Roumania no other route than that through Serbia, which is now closed also. To the central powers, Roumania would not sell, and what little was bought had to be taken at prohibitive prices, to which vast sums in the form of extortion of one sort or another had to be added. It is believed that the present transaction cleans the slate.

Fail to Prevent Sale.

Agents of the entente governments were active to prevent the sale, but were defeated by the fact that Russia, the only allied power with whom Roumania Roumanian Grain Sales commission and now has physical contact and communistoring all the grain on options. They were willing to sell their products and store them on a cach-in-hand basis. as arrangement with entente agents. who later refused to take up their options and promises on the plea that faulty storage had spoiled the grain.

Negotiations will soon be undertaken for the sale to the central powers of about 250,000 tons of benzine and gasoline now held in storage, and the monthly output of 25,000 tons of the same fuels. The export of Roumanian meat cattle is also being discussed. Roumania's position is such at present that, as opposition members in the Roumanian parliament have pointed out, she has become the ally of the central powers economically if the military situation does not change in favor of the allies.

This is true also in respect to Roumanian imports, which at present come from Germany and Austria-Hungary and which, with most stores virtually depleted, will go far in offsetting the coat of the grain bought by the central
